“ I have so many memories of Brandon, but this one is my favorite. Brandon was terrified of spiders and so am I. Well we were in my Nannys living room and and he was walking towards the kitchen in front of me and on the curtain in front of us there was a spider on the curtain and I freaked out and pushed him towards the curtain and when he saw the spider he started screaming. He jumped on top of the table and he started knocking everything over while I was jumping around screaming too, my Nanny had to get out of bed and coming in there to kill that spider. She just laughed at the way both of us were acting and so did we. R.I.P BamBam you'll stay in my heart forever!
