“ Roy Smith was a Christian, a true gentleman, who was always courteous and down to earth with everyone he met. He was always sincere with a kind and sweet nature. Life can have its challenges, but he seemed to always block out the noise and drama. You knew it was well with his soul because he always put God, and his family and friends as his main focus. Roy and Margaret always served as positive role models for my wife and I to try to emulate. Our lives and all others were greatly enriched by knowing and interacting with this good man.

“ I have loved Roy Smith since I was a small child. He was always a man of God, family, and friends. He was fun and easy for me to be around. He offered spiritual and life guidance to me, with a great sense of humor that made you enjoy being around him. He did his best to keep my fingers out of the fan-lol. After that, he learned to take a firmer hand when I needed guidance. I always found him to appear to be intimidating, until you looked at his face. He couldn't hide the "twinkle" in his eyes. Even after I was an adult, I enjoyed going to visit him and his wonderful wife. I know he is rejoicing in Heaven today. He will be missed here, but his big heart lives on in me and many others that he encouraged.-Jeff Johnson

“ Mr. Smith always counseled and led as a Christian. Even when us kids screwed up, he was the first to step in and guide with recognition of what we were doing wrong and why it was wrong. I have never played Momma Peg with a knife after his guidance. We were blessed to not have gotten hurt in our stupid games. Heaven has a new Angel!
