

Deborah Jackson

January 27, 1953 - November 15, 2015

"A great woman passed away on November 15th, 2015. Her name was Deborah Louise Jackson. She was my grandmother, who I call Nana, she has been there since my birth, and I've been there for her. Now it's very sad for everyone in my family, but it's okay, she is with another great person who died two years before, my Grampy. Both of them are reunited and happy. I love them both, and our family and friends will never forget them. Nana is gone, but will never be forgotten." This was written by Debbie's granddaughter, Sierra.

Debbie is survived by her four children, Amber Lashbrook(Elliot), Josh Jackson(Jessica), Chelsea Preston(James) and Brittany Jackson(Chris); her grandchildren, Charisma, Phillip, Mackenzie, Sierra, Juliana, Adriana, Jonny, Ariana, Logan and Braelyn; her older brother Richard his wife Susan and their son Tim as well as her cousin Renee. There are many more who will never forget her strength or friendship.

Tribute Wall

AR

“ This was my Nana, my name is Arianna, my mother is Chelsea. I didn't know you so much but I know you threw stories. How you loved to sing Disney songs with my mom, especially Colors Of The Wind. And I know that you would be so proud of your family. There doing great and I've never been more proud to call you my nana. I love and miss you. This month even more.

Arianna Rocha - November 16, 2022 at 02:00 AM

LI

“ Debbie was my next door neighbor on Anderson St. in the 1950s. We were able to reconnect on Facebook and it was wonderful keeping up with her adventures and share her sorrows. I was shocked and saddened by her passing. Peace be with you, Debbie.

Lindsay

Lindsay - January 27, 2016 at 03:48 AM

SK

“ Knowing her as a classmate I remember her smile and personality. It was so great to reconnect with her on facebook in our later years. She was a woman of much faith and strength. Peace, Love and Light to all. Rest in peace now.

Shirley E Killam - November 21, 2015 at 10:19 AM

SK

I was Shirley Ealy in school.

Shirley E Killam - November 21, 2015 at 10:20 AM

Amber
Lashbrook

Thank you Shirley, mom told me she had reconnected with you and other classmate's from the past.

Amber Lashbrook - November 21, 2015 at 10:56 AM

Chelsea
Jackson-
Preston

“ My mother was amazing. There are so many memories good, bad and in between it is hard to know what to say. She has shown such strength so many times in my life. She didnt give up hope or faith when she hemorrhaged while in labor with me and the doctors thought i would be handicap mentally after the traumatic birth, she wanted to shove my honor roll grades in their faces :) She worked hard when we were children to make sure we were cared for. She made every recital, game or competition. She cheered us on and loved us fiercely into adulthood. My mother stood by me when I was at my lowest and lifted me with her faith and love. She was my biggest cheerleader even when she didn't agree with my choices, which was not often.

When I had each of my children she showered us with love from afar and even moved to San Antonio to help us care for Arianna when she was a month old. I know that bonding time was something very special to her, as was her time with any of her grandchildren. She knew and loved them all as fiercely as she loved us.

When we lost Daddy just 2 short years ago she stood as a pillar of strength for us to lean on even though her own heart was broken at the loss of the man she loved for most of her life. She held us together and reminded us that the things about eachother that drove us crazy were all things we had in common.

Mommy, if you can read this from heaven, tell daddy and all our loved ones we are going to be okay and we will pull together like you wanted us too and be there for eachother. You can all rest peacefully knowing your love and support in life will sustain us through your passing until we meet again. I love you more than there are words to say.

Chelsea Jackson-Preston - November 20, 2015 at 02:02 PM

“ My mom was an amazing woman, who supported her children and loved one's through thick and thin. I have so many memories that I'm not sure what to share. I remember the long hours she worked in CA in order to make sure she could help my dad support our family. I remember when her and dad played softball and all us kids would cheer them on at the park. I remember how much she loved watching and cheering on my brother Josh while he played little league.

How much fun she had while joining all our school field trips. How she was determined to beat breast cancer, and she did. How she had such a huge heart that she would take in and adopt any and every friend we had. She was there for the birth of all my children. She loved to write, and wrote some of the most beautiful poetry. She rp'd with her children and made so many friends. She had a huge heart and loved her family fiercely.

She may be gone, but she will never be forgotten by anyone who knew here. I am so glad she was my mom, but she was more than just my mom - she was one of my best friends. Rest in peace mommy, watch over us with Dad, Nana, Grampy and Grammy and everyone else we've lost over the years.

- Amber

Amber Lashbrook - November 20, 2015 at 01:42 PM