Lestell Lee Dawson was a fearless man of strength, dedication, and unwavering love for his family and country. Known to most as Lee, and affectionately as “Red” for his fiery red hair and equally bold outlook on life, he never saw obstacles—only speed bumps meant to be overcome.

Lee proudly served his country for more than twenty years, carrying the values of discipline, courage, and service into every part of his life. His love for his country was matched only by his devotion to his family. He shared more than fifty years of marriage with his beloved wife, Margareta Dawson.

Together, they raised their son, Lee Dawson, who was a constant source of pride. Known for his remarkable work ethic, Lee continued working up until the time of his passing, believing deeply in showing up, working hard, and doing things right. Lee leaves behind a legacy of service, friendship, and strength. He will be deeply missed by the many friends and loved ones whose lives were touched by his fearless spirit and steady presence.

“ I've known Red for 40 plus years. He gave me my start at a real job. I thought he was stern a lot of times; but by him doing that I learned a lot from him. He expected you to be on time and to fix the trucks right. This is what made me the mechanic I am today. I try to do my very best as a mechanic because he took a chance on me the day he hired me 36 years ago. I will miss hearing the stories he told and the talks we had and he was really good at doing that. I will also miss seeing him come by the shop. He is now with his sweet wife Mrs. Dawson together with Jesus. May God bless all the family you are all in our prayers. Scott Bailey
