Parsley and Donald Ray Williams; parents, George Henry McKenzie Sr. and Dovie Lee McKenzie; siblings, Martha Jane Butterworth, George Henry McKenzie Jr., James Clayton McKenzie and Edna Marie Smith; daughter in law, Pamela Sue Williams.

Pallbearers will be the grandsons.

Mildred L. Williams was many things to many people. A wife, a mother, a dear friend, the teacher of many of life's most valuable lessons, a dedicated contributor to worthy causes, an avid reader, an incredible quilt maker and an ever-listening ear, just to name a few. With 97 years of life on this earth, hers is a legacy that will not soon be forgotten. Although she never aspired to be a pastor's wife, she dutifully served along side her husband as a Steward of the faith. Faced with some of life's most difficult challenges, she endured with dignity and grace through the loss of her husband, siblings, and almost all of her children. She left an incredible legacy of love, unwavering faith, and selfless giving.

We know that as she left this earth, she was reunited in heaven with her Savior, Jesus Christ, and countless friends and family. Her struggle is over. Paradise is before her. As a family, we grieve the loss of our matriarch, but have hope in seeing her again in eternity. Thank You, God, for such a blessing as we received having her as the center of our family.
